There were also mental health professionals on hand to help anyone in need with support and counselling. Cheers and a feeling of success greeted athletes as they reached the finish line. A post-marathon party included interactive lectures on stress reduction and mental wellness, as well as music and food vendors.

The run was a huge success because it brought people from all walks of life together to spread the important message that mental health matters and that by working together, we can create a society where those who are struggling can find the care and resources they require.
